Off-Site Data Storage

Having been approached by many of you about providing off-site data storage, we are happy to announce that this service is now available to those who are interested. The "backup machine" will not only preserve your data in the event of system failure, but if installed at a facility other than the host location it can also ensure against unforeseen disasters such as fire, flood, etc. Your business can be up and running on the backup machine, rather than just having a copy of your data.

How does this off-site data storage work? By using a "high-speed" internet connection with a static IP address such as a DSL or cable internet, your data will be automatically transferred nightly to a storage server housed at our corporate offices here in Texas. This data can be loaded on a replacement server if needed and sent back to you either across the internet or using the media of your choice. These files are stored on a secure server to which no one other than Advantage employees have access, thus ensuring the security and integrity of your data. This service does not eliminate your daily backup routine or the off-site storage of your backup media, but adds a further layer of security to your present procedures.

Pricing for this service is based on the amount of data which is stored for you. Advantage can store not only your "live user data" but also "history" and copies of your "year-end data" as well. The user data will be transferred on a daily basis, the year-end data copied once, and history on a monthly basis as it gets updated.

The fee is invoiced monthly with no contract required. There is an initial setup fee for configuration. For any questions concerning this service, please call the Sales Department at 800-991-7283, extension 206.
